MAYOR'S MESSAGE

some kind of improvements for the road. To that end, I have been working closely with Nassau County's Executive, Ed Mangano, Chief Deputy County Executive, Rob Walker and the heads of the Department of Public Works (DPW) to get the road temporarily repaired before the major drainage work begins.

I'm pleased to report that I met in the County Executive's office this past week with Mr. Mangano and was told that temporary resurfacing will be done before the start of the school year! Some of this repair is already underway west of us, but the balance (from Whitney Lane to Route 107) will be done at night (closing the road) and should last about a week. It's only temporary, but at least we will be able to drive the road under better conditions. Once the main drainage work is complete, the road will be re-paved again.

At a press conference on August 13th, I met with Congressman Steve Israel, State Senator Jack Martins, Representatives from Nassau County and four North Shore Mayors regarding the FAA and airplane noise. We all voiced our deep concerns regarding the constant low level flying of planes in our area. Israel said if he doesn't hear back from the FAA, then he would introduce legislation in Congress holding back their funding.

The FAA has not been honoring prior agreements that they signed with officials regarding noise abatement in our area. I will keep you advised as the situation develops.

Continuing in this vein of public safety, renovation work on the Old Brookville Police Department building is well underway. This will enhance and streamline police operations. Some new police vehicles with the latest hi-tech equipment are now on patrol, which will help the officers perform their jobs more effectively and provide our residents with the high level of protection they deserve.

As conditions change and new issues arise, be assured that I will continue to keep you informed through this publication, on our website and via email campaigns. Enjoy the rest of your summer!

A Message From Your Mayor Daniel H. Serota

Hope this message finds you and your family well and enjoying what's left of the summer. Allow me to briefly bring you up to speed on our efforts to address many important safety and maintenance issues facing the Village.

The start of the 2014 hurricane season is upon us and our Director of Office of Emergency Management (OEM), Bob Spina, and the VOB Storm Team had their first meeting to evaluate our emergency and hurricane preparedness.

We conducted a dry run practice drill by activating the OEM systems we have set in place and updated our plans from lessons learned from past storms.

Additionally, we are setting up an off-site OEM operation room on the assumption that Brookville will not have electric, internet and other necessary utilities to function with any kind of efficiency.

I'm pleased to report that these procedures raised our level of preparedness to a higher degree.

Another very important item on my agenda is the current condition of Wheatley Road. Although this is a County Road, and not in the jurisdiction of the Village Brookville, I have been unrelenting in my efforts to get

Nassau County Set To Start Major Drainage Project On Wheatley Road

Potholes like this one can be found in abundance along Wheatley Road. Combine this with poor drainage, and uneven road surface, and you've got a dangerous road to traverse. Drainage and repair work are set to begin this fall.

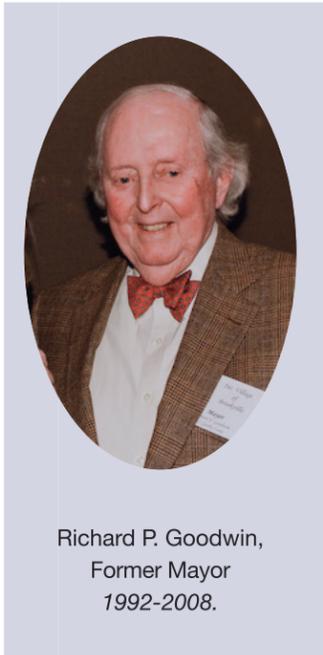

Wheatley Road, probably the worst road in our Village, is about to get an overhaul from Route 107 west to Whitney Road. And it can't come a moment too soon (although it will wreck havoc with traffic since it's anticipated that there will be ongoing traffic stoppages and delays).

Wheatley is a narrow, winding road with numerous drainage issues that have all played a part in contributing to auto accidents over the years. Combine that with the many potholes and very rough patches of pavement, and it's a disaster in the making.

Due to the hard work of our Mayor, Nassau County has put Wheatley Road on the fast track for temporary resurfacing, repairing the drainage and then resurfacing the road again in its entirety along that portion from Route 107 to Whitney Road.

The County's plan is to begin work immediately re-surfacing some portions of the road starting near AHRC and continuing west. But the main work will start this Fall when they begin to completely overhaul the drainage. This will mean digging up roadway and shoulder in order to lay pipe in their "right of way." It will also mean removing many trees which grow in the path of the work. Once this portion of the project is complete, the road will be resurfaced. Work is anticipated to be complete by late Fall 2015 at the earliest. (For details, see Mayor's Message at left.)

BROOKVILLE HAS LOST A GOOD FRIEND – FORMER MAYOR, RICHARD P. GOODWIN

Richard P. Goodwin,
Former Mayor

We are deeply saddened to share the news that Richard Peter Goodwin, former mayor, 40-year resident, good friend and hard-working colleague passed away peacefully on Sunday, May 18, 2014 at his home, surrounded by family.

Known to one and all as Dick Goodwin, he completed nearly 30 years of service on behalf of our Village, including 17 years spent as mayor (1992 to 2008). He was also a past Police Commissioner of the OBPD and served on several Village Boards.

In addition to his Village volunteer work, he was President of Richard P. Goodwin Associates for over 40 years; a Director of the American Community Bank; Past President, Garden City Rotary; Retired New York City Fireman; New York City Policeman; a Korean War Veteran and a Parishioner of St. Paul the Apostle Church.

“Dick was a real tour de force in our Village, working tirelessly for all those years just so that he could make a difference,” said Daniel Serota, the current Mayor of Brookville.

“Few people knew how incredibly hard Dick worked for Brookville,” said Caroline Bazzini, former mayor and deputy mayor under his tenure. “Everything he did was always done with the intention of making Brookville a better and more beautiful place. He will be sorely missed.”

“Mayor Goodwin was a real “guys guy,” said Tim Dougherty, Building Superintendent. “He was here when I started my career in the late 80’s and I found out right away why he was so popular. He was a tough, no-nonsense guy, but he was always fair, honorable and loyal. He was completely supportive of his staff and his motto was, “get the job done.”We were like family. I will always have great respect for him and will cherish his memory.”

Dick was an avid golfer and he used that skill to start the first Brookville Golf Outing with proceeds that went to the Brookville Park Foundation (BPF). “We were the beneficiaries of his hard work,” said Genevieve Johanas, the president of the BPF. “The Outings enabled us to get desperately needed water to our beds as well as to create several new beds that we could not have afforded to do otherwise. When you drive around our Village and see the 13 flower beds, it’s nice to know that our mayor played a part in helping them to thrive.”

Loved by his wife, Irene; praised by his children, Richard Jr. and Ellen; admired by his grandsons, Richard III and John Pohmer; cared for by son-in-law Kurt Pohmer; brother of Robert and Frank, both deceased; Dick was an enthusiastic family man, squash player, tennis player, platform player, skier, and of course, a golfer.

The family is grateful for gifts in memory of Dick...to The Interfaith Nutrition Network (The INN, 211 Fulton St., Hempstead, NY 11550), to Mommas House (Mommas Inc., 1857 Wantagh Ave., Wantagh, NY 11793), to St. Paul the Apostle Church, or to a favorite charity.

DESTRUCTION FROM HURRICANES

The level and intensity of hurricanes are categorized by maximum sustained winds ONLY and does not address potential for other hurricane related impacts, such as storm surge, rainfall-induced floods, tornadoes and microbursts. Hurricanes are categorized by the Saffir-Simpson scale as follows:

CATEGORY 1 — Winds of 74-95 mph. Trees could be uprooted; possible damage to homes. Electrical interruptions of loss of electricity possible in specific areas.

CATEGORY 2 — Winds of 96-110 mph. All of the above plus near-total power loss expected with outages that could last from several days to weeks. (Let’s not forget that because of Brookville’s low population density, we rank low on the repair list. Screaming about how much we pay in taxes or who we know will not speed up repair for our area.)

CATEGORY 3 — Winds of 111-129 mph. Devastating damage will occur. Electricity and water could be unavailable for several days to weeks after the storm passes.

CATEGORY 4 — Winds of 130-156 mph. Catastrophic damage will occur. Power outages will last weeks to possibly months. Most of the area could be uninhabitable for weeks or even months. (And another reason to have a “Shelter With Family & Friends” plan in place.)

CATEGORY 5 — Winds of 157 mph or higher. Catastrophic damage will occur same as the above with increased severity.

Don’t be sorry. Be safe!

Generators: A Luxury Or An Essential?

by Tim Dougherty, Building Inspector

Although we all know this, it bears repeating: Brookville is considered a low-density population area. And that's why PSEG puts us at the bottom of the list: because they restore power by the numbers. That being said, I'm pleased to report that I see more and more applications for home generators. Since storm season is basically upon us, I thought I'd provide a recap of what can be a very important, and very comforting purchase.

There are two basic types of generators: Standby (the most powerful and most expensive) and the Portable (provides limited electricity but at a far more affordable price).

Standby Generators are permanently installed outside your home and wired directly into your electrical system to provide power to some or all of your home circuits during utility failure. They automatically start when the power goes out and stop when the power returns. Standby generators are fueled by liquid propane, diesel oil or natural gas and require a professional to install. A standby model can cost as little as $2,000 or as much as $30,000 or more – depending on the power capacity. Propane or diesel tank installations would be an additional line item. All standby generators require Village permits and both a licensed electrician and plumber to install. Permitted generator location on your property varies as per the zone you live in and should be screened if visible to others.

Portable generators are just that; small enough to be picked up and moved. Usually fueled by gasoline, they have power outlets like the ones in the walls of your home. When the generator is running you can plug a limited number of appliances directly into these outlets. Because portable generators create carbon monoxide, they must run outside of the home. Portables range in cost from several hundred dollars to several thousand dollars,

The size of a generator (measured in kilowatts) depends upon what is important to you to have operating during the outage. Your electrician could help you with this prior to your selection. There are many brands to choose from, though Kohler and Generac seem to be two of the more popular ones for home use. Please contact the Village Building Department at 516-626-0973 for more information about permit requirements for a Standby Generator.

TAKING ON THE NYS POTHOLE LAW

(Edited from a story by reporter Sam Roberts, The New York Times)

Thomas J. Abinanti, a Democratic assemblyman from Westchester County, was driving to Albany on the Taconic State Parkway this past January when his car struck a pothole. He made it to the capital, but the tire had to be replaced. A few weeks later, he hit another pothole, this one on Interstate 95. Limping off the exit ramp in Mamaroneck on the dented rim, he pulled into a nearby gas station.

"Here comes another one," the attendant said. (Aside: He might as well have been speaking of Wheatley Road.)

At the other end of the state, a receptionist at a factory in Buffalo, was going home one day this past winter when her car plunged into a pothole, a hazard she said she had reported to the State DOT twice. She lost both passenger side tires and both wheel rims. The bill was nearly $4,000.

In both pothole cases, neither is entitled to file a claim against the state for damages, even though they were driving on State roads and under the state's jurisdiction. The hitch was that both drivers had the misfortune of hitting potholes when potholes are most likely to occur, during the coldest months of the year.

Until midnight, on April 30th of any given year, if a car is dinged or even totaled because of a defect on a New York State road, drivers cannot legally claim reimbursement for damages from the State. After midnight, drivers should call their lawyer. Section 58 of the State Highway Law explicitly exempts the state from liability for damages arising from defects on its highways except between May 1 and November 15.

It seems like the law is flip-flopped. They should cover potholes in the winter. At least in the summertime they can be seen and perhaps avoided.

The state budget approved earlier this year included an extra $40 million to help municipalities repair potholes after the brutal winter, in which snow and ice storms prompted Governor Cuomo to declare a half-dozen states of emergency and state crews filled potholes with 16,000 tons of patch mix, double the typical amount.

But the state's legal immunity for pothole claims during the peak winter pothole season helps to explain the huge disparity between what the state pays out and what New York City pays out (those roads not being under the jurisdiction of the State. In 2013, NYC paid out $5.5 million in pothole-related claims. That same year, for defects that caused damages only in the balmy months from May 1 to November 15, the State reimbursed motorists $13,386.

Courts have since ruled that the State is still liable for out-and-out misfeasance or negligence, but the winter "not my fault" waiver has been on the books at least as far back as 1935, when Albany, faced with a tenfold increase in auto registrations over two decades, approved a major investment in new roads and relieve the state of liability for damages caused by snow and ice on its highways.

Robert F. Danzi, president of the New York State Trial Lawyers Association, described Section 58 — which was amended as recently as 1971, though the essence of the law remains unchanged — as "the most blatant and draconian" example of "trading safety for financial expedience."

A version of this article appears in print on April 30, 2014, on page A20 of the New York edition with the headline: Taking on a Quirky Pothole Law: In Winter, the State Rejects Drivers' Damage Claims.

Editor's Note: In Brookville, both Cedar Swamp Road and Route 106 are State roads and under their jurisdiction. Wheatley Road is a county road and under their jurisdiction. As of this writing, we are also researching what kind of law, if any, applies to pothole damages on county roads.

LONG ISLAND LUTHERAN'S FIRST FAMILY CELEBRATES!

(Mansion Door Dedication): Members of Long Island Lutheran's Class of '64, '65, and '66 gather in the Mansion Courtyard for presentation of class gifts.

Founded in 1960, Long Island Lutheran, "LuHi" is located on the 32-acre Rutherford Estate in Brookville on the "Gold Coast" of Long Island. The estate, originally called High Pool, had been built in the 1930's by Deering Howe and consisted of a 30-room mansion, a 6-car Carriage House with an apartment overhead, a 7-room Caretaker's Residence, tennis courts, and an Olympic-sized swimming pool. The estate was purchased for $110,000 in 1959 by LuHi and as advance enrollment quickly reached 400, the decision was made to build a permanent school building. Fifty years later, "LuHi's First Family," the graduating classes of '64, '65 and '66 gathered to celebrate their fiftieth reunion on July 26th & 27th, with a weekend full of activities, including a memorial service and dedication on the school campus.

During the dedication, alumni presented their class gifts which included restoration of the original mansion entry, including main doors and decorative wrought iron. The intricately designed iron-work features the insignia of the mansions original owner, Deering Howe. In addition, the classes gifted funds to the First Family Endowed Scholarship Fund, which provides financial aid for students in need.

Today, LuHi serves 600 students in grades 6 through 12 in a Christ-centered, college-preparatory environment. Students "achieve, believe, and belong" at LuHi. Servant activities are a big part of the curriculum; and students have many opportunities throughout the school year to provide help for those in need. Students hold a yearly Christmas party for patients at Creedmoor Psychiatric Center, participate in food drives, build with Habitat for Humanity, and assist at soup kitchens and foodpantries. In addition to these service events, LuHi hosts a Meal Packing Event annually where LuHi students, faculty and staff, along with members of the community, including the Oyster Bay Interact Club, The Green Vale School, Trinity Lutheran School, Grace Lutheran School, the Locust Valley Rotary Club, and other churches and community groups, help to package nutritionally balanced meals.

Completed meal packets are distributed to Island Harvest, the Freeport Emergency Food Pantry, New Ground and other local food pantries in need. Additional meal packets are shipped to the Andrew Grene School outside of Port au Prince, Haiti, an official feeding site that prepares and serves food to children in need. In total, 316,224 meals packed during this three-day event in 2014, for a grand total of more than 1.2 million meals packed since inception of this event 4 years ago.

Members of the Brookville community are welcome to join us at our 2015 Meal Packing Event which will take place on April 19-21, 2015. For further information how you or local groups can get involved in this incredible event, contact Jane Lottes at Long Island Lutheran: 516-626-1700 x 549 or jane.lottes@luhi.org.

The original LuHi mansion doors were renovated and wrought iron work was restored, note the DH initials for original estate owner Deering Howe.

Audit a Class at LIU Post's New 'Open University'

Ever wonder what goes on in today's college classrooms? Now is your chance to excite your curiosity. A few times each semester, LIU Post's renowned faculty of scholars and scientists open their classrooms to visitors and alumni to explore a particular topic or trend. The public is invited to audit, for a nominal fee, up to two lessons per semester from a select grouping of scientific, historical, humanities and artistic courses. No examinations or papers are required. Just relax and enjoy new-found knowledge!

This Fall, residents are invited to select from the following lessons as part of "Open University" program. Lectures run from September to November and include:

- * "What's the Verdict? Medical malpractice: what can go wrong will go wrong"
- * "Flattening the Earth: A Cartographic Art and Science"
- * "Machiavelli to Marx: The Origins of Modern Political Life"
- * "The Analytics of Love"
- * "Vertebrate Paleontology: Pre-Historic Life"
- * "History of Visual Communications: From Sumerians to Selfies - what we really mean if we really look"
- * "European Political Theory"

Classes are taught by LIU's top professors, including Biology Professor William Schutt, a research associate at the American Museum of Natural History, and Political Science Professor Michael Soupis, author of the book "The 10 Golden Rules to Leadership," to be published this November.

For information and a schedule, contact the LIU Post School of Continuing and Professional Education at 516-299-4003 or email neighbor@liu.edu.

UPDATES, NOTICES & EVENTS AROUND THE VILLAGE

By Tim Dougherty, Building Inspector

As we drive through our Village we can all notice a big increase in construction. After several sleepy years of the "wait and see" approach, the mood has changed into "how quickly can I start". Permits are up over 50% as compared to last year. We have approved five (5) spec homes over the Spring which is a good sign of things to come. Due to Hurricane Irene and Super Storm Sandy, generators seem to have become a necessity and have surpassed swimming pools in numbers!! We are hoping the major storms stay away and deter the need for them. The Village Engineers are currently drawing up specs for road improvements on Brookville Road and Fruitledge Road. These are the main entries of the Village owned roads and we are hoping to complete these projects by the end of the year — weather permitting.

PERMIT APPLICATIONS: A list of permits applied for in the Village in the past 2 months are as follows:

- 7 Additions/Alterations
- 6 Driveways, 2 Patios and 3 Fences
- 2 Generators and 3 Propane Tanks
- 2 New Dwellings
- 8 Road Openings

APRIL 2014 ANNUAL ORGANIZATION MEETING SWEARS IN VOLUNTEERS & STAFF

The regular meeting of the Board of Trustees was a more festive occasion as it recognized our volunteers who give so generously of their time as well as those who serve our Village and who go "above and beyond" during the course of the year.

Fred Bazzini, Andrew Porges, Bill Loeffler, are sworn in. Caroline Bazzini is sworn in as Deputy Mayor and Ed Chesnik as Trustee.

Bill Loeffler's family proudly looks on as he signs the Oath Book right after being sworn in.

YOUR VILLAGE OEM STORM TEAM IS GEARING UP FOR THE SEASON AHEAD

BE PREPARED... NOT SCARED

Tropical storms, hurricanes, nor'easters, even snow storms, aren't that far off!

We learned a few hard lessons from Hurricane Irene in 2011. But in the end, Super Storm Sandy (not even a Category 1 Hurricane) was the worst natural disaster to hit Long Island in 75 years — and probably the worst to hit Brookville.

Not since the Hurricane of 1938 (which wiped out Muncey Island and part of Fire Island) has our community endured such widespread devastation from a weather event. Our entire Village lost electricity (as did 90% of Long Island). It was over two weeks before the last of us got our power back. We waited hours on line for fuel. And everywhere, patience wore thin.

June 1st marked the official start of the hurricane season in our area (And, Arthur, the first hurricane of the season has already made its way into our region, although thankfully not into our area.) And this newsletter certainly doesn't mark the first time we've talked about emergency preparedness. The plain truth is, although we all have good intentions, few of us take the actions necessary to prepare.

The critical key is to create an emergency plan ahead of time for you and your family — this will help you to stay organized in case of a major weather event. In fact, if you are prepared with enough food (items that require no refrigeration, preparation or cooking,) and water (one gallon of water per person per day for at least 5 days), you can turn an emergency into an inconvenience instead of a disaster.

Your emergency plan should include a communication system (remember, the cell towers were all dead in this area in less than 24 hours after SS Sandy), a disaster supply kit (more about that later) and an alternate meeting place that is different than your home.

Brookville is far enough away from bodies of water that we are unlikely to have to evacuate because of flooding. Nevertheless, if instructions were given to evacuate, you would have to leave your home. We know from the experience of others, it's a lot better to take refuge with family and friends outside of the storm zone than it is to go to a shelter. You'll be a lot more comfortable on a sofa than a cot in a shelter.

Nassau County Executive Ed Mangano has been hard at work to prepare Nassau County including a new Nassau County Code Red Emergency Notification System which will alert all residents by telephone of important events and possible safety threats.

Email and text are critically important to an overall communications plan. Ever since Hurricane Irene, we have been making a concerted effort to reach residents via email blasts. So if you haven't registered yet, or your data has changed, be sure to complete the Emergency Contact Form on Page 11 and return it to the Village.

PACK 'N GO EMERGENCY KITS

You don't need to buy a special bag or an expensive kit when it's so easy to put together kits that are customized for the person who is going to use it. Just pack these items into a small, portable container such as a hands-free backpack or duffel bag, in case you need to relocate quickly, one for each family member. Keep these kits in a handy place and where everyone knows of their location. Consider the following:

INDIVIDUAL OR FAMILY PACK 'N GO EMERGENCY KITS

- First aid kit, including an emergency "how to" guide.
- Essential prescription and nonprescription items and medical info.
- Battery-powered flashlight and radio (or crank radio), extra batteries and a 12-hour glow stick.
- A change of clothes, plus rainwear, sturdy shoes and protective gloves.
- Personal items, ie: eyeglasses, cash in small bills.
- Copies of important documents in a waterproof container:
 - Drivers license, Wills, Birth/Marriage Certificates,
 - Insurance policies,
 - Deed or Lease, recent Tax Returns, Credit Card and Bank Account numbers, Social Security cards,
 - Passport, Home Inventory List

PACK 'N GO FOR PETS

- Your pets' names, address and phone number.
- Your name, address, phone and cell number.
- Emergency contact - friend or family.
- Your vet's name and contact info
- Medical records - specific care instructions, behavioral problems.
- First aid kit/medications.
- Current photos.
- Sturdy leash, collar or harness, muzzles
- Paper towels for clean up.
- Food, treats & bottled water for 5 days.
- Manual can opener & bowls.
- Water purification tablets.
- Toys & other comfort items.
- Grooming supplies (if needed)
- Newspapers & plastic bags for handling waste.

NASSAU COUNTY "CODE RED" EMERGENCY NOTIFICATION SYSTEM

Nassau County has authorized Code Red, a professional emergency notification network, to alert residents by telephone of important events and possible safety threats. In addition to our Emergency Data Form in this newsletter, it is important that you also register with Nassau County through their website: nassaucountyny.gov/alert. If you have any questions, please call the Nassau County Office of Emergency Management at: 516-573-9600.
